Personalization function

400 series ovens

The 400 series fully automatic coffee machine has a stainless steel-backed glass door with automatic handleless door opening; bean, milk and water levels are closely monitored and communicated.

Even though refilling is easy, choosing the fixed inlet and outlet water connection over the water tank solution removes not only the need to refill the water tank but also to empty the drip tray.

Purity of the coffee experience is paramount. To ensure that new beans are not contaminated with older grinds, the empty grinding function cleans the machine's ceramic grinders from all coffee residues. Additionally, the milk system is automatically steam-cleaned after each use, guaranteeing pure results for milk-based drinks.

With the fully automatic coffee machine, Gaggenau highlights both its attention to detail and its commitment to coffee culture.
